Verse 1

Aren't you the one who made the wonder of the stars
Who calls them all by name and has them lined up from afar
Aren't you the one who gave the seas their sandy shores
Who told the raging waters go this far and then no more
I can see your power has no limit, has no end
But you gave up Heaven's glory just to come and be my friend

Chorus

Who am I, that I can worship you
Speak your name – seek your face in all I do
Who am I, that you would long for me
By your side, Lord who am I

Verse 2

Aren't you the one who tells the morning sun to rise
Who tells the rose to bloom and the blind man open your eyes
Aren't you the one who came down here through virgin birth
Who has more thoughts of me than there are grains of sand on earth
If I was not saved, Heaven would have known no loss
But you could not bear the thought, you sent your Son to face that cross

Bridge

Compared to you I am nothing Lord, but to you I mean everything
Compared to you I am nothing Lord, but to me you give everything
Compared to you I am nothing Lord, but for me you did everything
Compared to you Lord, who am I
